

YUMMY MUMMY

Angelina Jolie

Samantha Hamilton connects with her guides from the other side for insights on Angelina...

The psychic energy that was flowing through last year for Angelina was doing her upmost to work as a team and to come through as modestly as she could. Certainly she was put to the test on many occasions with the roller coaster rides of fame and family life. As she understands the deaths and rebirths of change in her life, those that are close to her will watch over her achievements, with the loss of her mother she knows time is a great healer. With her instincts in tact and being very much attuned to her surroundings, for her it's all about making decision and what is valuable and important. There was a feeling of wanting a little peace and quiet time without too many ups and downs, now this is evident as routine and less fuss is coming in at such a speed for 2009.

There will be strong evidence of spiritual searching, as I see a guru figure that is well known in the public eye, support and encouragement will come from this person who is male. She will surprise us by funding a school for the less privileged children and assisting with educational resources and medical advice, for women in the third world countries. As she pulls in financial funding in these areas a difference will be felt and she will be asked in other parts of the world to talk to aid charities. It will be a very energetic year for her; she will ooze vitality, optimism putting the pain and losses of last year behind her.

Angelina's Karma

Angelina's past life and karmic traits is shown by the calm and the peaceful way she leads her life. Through being impulsive, diplomatic and kind hearted, polite and sensitive, she will go out of her way to avoid an argument, unless her mind is made up, she is capable of adapting to circumstances and taking fast action. Beneath her courteous exterior is a romantic heart although her tenderness and feelings of insecurity can sometimes make her closest relationships difficult. We can expect to see her more reserved than usual. As she gains strength the spotlight can bring interference on her life's journey. Between May and June there will be conflict with a third party and some form of separation will be talked about, with that to be expected you will see her taking a rest from work, but there will be another change as we can anticipate children's books and art of some form to be created with her husband Brad Pitt in the background making a film, that will challenge him and push him to his limits, as he will become a part of this production.